It's a known fact that most motivational speeches "pump up" audiences for a mere 24 to 48 hours. After that, the overwhelming majority of seminar attendees and audience members will revert back to their normal routines.

But with a structured motivational program, one that emphasizes the scientific foundations of understanding why we do the things we do, real change is possible. In other words, people won't fail because they don't want to reach their goals - they just don't know how.

A trained psychotherapist, Anthony Galie has been a professional speaker, author and expert on human performance for more than 30 years. He understands why top performers become the way they do and how anyone can use their habits to enhance their career and personal life.

His program, The Subconscious Secrets of Business Success, has been a hit with thousands of audiences around the world - from local associations to Fortune 500 companies and even the Million Dollar Roundtable! That's because Anthony weaves a crucial message - that motivating yourself towards a consistent effort is the key to lasting success - into a presentation that's funny and entertaining. We can promise it's like nothing you've ever seen!
