Jordan Davis

Travels from: Georgia

Fee Range: $2,500 - $5,000

A proven leader and a seasoned trainer, Jordan Davis knows how to maximize corporate resources in demanding and complex organizations. A self-starter, Jordan identifies and solves operational problems by using his exceptional skills in training and development, management, sales, communications and leadership.

Jordan refined his skills in a number of increasingly responsible positions. He directed recreational programs and operations for over 7,000 personnel, utilizing 31 facilities that generated more than $12 million annually. He collaborated with 12 international agencies to develop and facilitate a major operational plan that met time and budget constraints. His novel marketing strategies increased sales by 120 percent in less than a year.

Jordan Davis' many accomplishments reflect the theme he intertwines throughout his training: "Constantly learning and growing and taking total responsibility for everything in life." Audiences feel empowered to take responsibility for their personal and professional lives after spending an enlightening day with Jordan Davis.
